How Much Litter Will I Need?

Two 2-lb. bags of litter normally lasts one cat approximately one month if properly maintained

*The State of California encourages the disposal of cat feces in trash and discourages flushing cat feces in toilets or disposing of them in drains

LitterAlley SAVES YOU MONEY

We recommend starting the box with 3-4 lb and replacing the removed clumps with fresh litter as needed.

Depending on the size and number of cats 4-5 lbs lasts as long or longer than most litters. Using less litter, means fewer pounds in the landfill, and lower maintenance costs.

At Litter-Alley Fantastic™ we strongly believe in doing our part for the natural environment. Every year millions of pounds of clay litter are going to the landfill. The clay used in clay litter products will break down into a fine powder then harden like cement. Decomposition takes much longer than natural plant materials such as corn cobs.

All natural ingredients that deliver advanced odor control and clumping naturally.

ABOUT CORN COBS

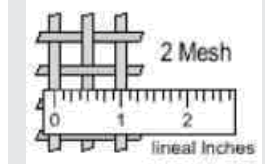

There are four components of corn cobs.

Each component has characteristics which are beneficial in differing end use applications. Beeswing, Pith and Chaff are the most absorbent and lightweight components. The Woody Ring is the hardest part of the cob and works well as a carrier and an abrasive.

Every corn cob is stored inside buildings on cement floors.

Our manufacturer (Best Cob) is the only cob processor on the face of the earth that handles our cobs in this manner. Keeping corn cobs stored inside provides protection from all of the elements, such as rain, snow and dirt. Their inventory is fresh and free from decomposition, rot, mold, mildew, dirt and sand, all of which can degrade and lower the quality of processed finished corn cob products.

Best Cob processes our corn cobs to the highest degree of quality as well. They have exceeded all of our expectations by providing the highest quality processed corn cob available today. They are continuously improving the products by investing in cutting-edge research and new equipment.

Best Cob buys clean dry corn cobs primarily from seed corn companies. During the months of September and October, the cobs are hauled to the company warehouse and are processed throughout the year until the next harvest.

Corn cobs are processed through a series of grinding, cleaning, and sizing operations to produce the desired end products. Those
